Bob was a third-generation Victorian and a Vic High graduate. An aviation enthusiast, Bob began his career as a pilot in the Naval Reserve patrolling the coast in the early '60s. He then became an air traffic controller and after stints in Victoria and Prince George settled into a long career as a controller in Vancouver. Bob was involved in the controllers' union rising to the position of VP Technical of CATCA, travelling to every corner of the globe representing Canada in the field of civil aviation. After nearly three decades in front of the radar screen Bob transferred to the management side supervising controllers at YYJ and performing aircraft accident investigations for NavCanada. Other pastimes included his time as Vancouver Crimestoppers Director, playing guitar and mandolin, participating in various sports including Judo, hockey, scuba diving and bowling, traveling with Darlene, and spinning tales on a barstool at the local pub. A celebration of life will be held June 8 at 2 p.m. at the UBC Boathouse, River Road, Richmond.
